PORT WAYNE, Ind., June 13.—Wheeling lost the third game of the series this afternoon through the ineffective pitching of Al Pardee. The Stogies were unable to do anything with "Bumpus" Jones when hits meant runs. The home team played a fine game in the field, not a misplay being made. Score:

Platt in Good Form.

PHILADELPHIA, June 13.—Platt was in good form to-day, and kept the hits of St. Louis well scattered. Philadelphia, on the other hand, hit the ball hard in nearly every inning. Sudhoff was taken out of the rubber after the fifth, and Thomas substituted. He was no improvement, and the locals won with ease. Score:

Chicago Suit Out.

NEW YORK, June 13.—The New Yorks again defeated Chicago to-day, securing their third consecutive shut-out. This is a record of recent years. It was again a pitcher's battle. Hawley having the better of it. It was through his clever pitching and the New Yorks' sharp fielding that only twenty-eight Chicago players saw the field. One of these got a base on balls. Score:

Barrett Was Put Out.

BROOKLYN, June 13.—Barrett was put out of the game for kicking to-day, and the Cincinnati became demoralized. Wood, who took his place, misjudged two flies in the seventh, and before the home team was retired six Brooklyn men had crossed the plate. McGinty allowed Cincinnati but four hits, and was faultlessly supported. Jones was hurt by a pitched ball and retired. Score:

BASE BALL COMMENT.

The Wheelings arrive from Port Wayne this morning, and the Daytonas will be in at an earlier hour. The two teams will cross bats in the opening contest of a three-game series on the inland grounds this afternoon. For the Stogies, Poole will appear on the mound, and the presence of several hundred of his friends from Carroll county, Ohio, his home, will spur him on to victory. The excursionists are coming down on a special train on the Wheeling & Lake Erie, and it is said there will be at least 500 in the crowd. Doubtless the largest week day crowd of the season will witness the game if the weather is propitious. For the Old Soldiers, "Doc" Watkins will probably do the twirling, and if he is as effective as he was last fall against the Wheeling team, Lytle's men will have to pull hard for victory. It will be a fight for the lead in the race, the two teams occupying first and second place respectively, with only nine points separating them.

Three victories and six defeats is the record of the Wheelings on their trip. One apiece was the result at Dayton, one in three at Toledo and one in four at Port Wayne. Another victory, and the record for the trip would have been quite credible.

Bowman, the University of West Virginia pitcher, reports for duty to the Wheeling club to-day.

Stricklett, the new pitcher purchased from Wheeling, seems to be the pitcher Strobel has been looking for. He let the Columbus team down with five hits at their home yesterday, which is a good performance for any pitcher. The young fellow is inclined to be sulky, and his worst fault is that he cannot stand bad umpiring. His work here with Wheeling did not stamp him as a wonder, but it is understood since that team went away that all was not harmony in the Stogie camp. When the team left Toledo for Port Wayne Lytle and one of his men had a knock-down and drag-out argument in the car and the player was only prevented from attacking the captain again by the interference of Manager Healy, who endeavored to quell the disturbance. Bates and Skopek have both been hit hard in Port Wayne, and it may be possible that Strobel has secured the best pitcher of the lot—Toledo Times.

The above is doubtless an exaggeration, and very likely is purely imagination on the part of the Toledo scribe. Judging from the two games played here, Toledo has a very strong team, both at the bat and in the field. The players are all fast, and they work hard all the time. Even big Tucker Turner is not afraid to slide to a base. Now that they have Stricklett to take his regular turn in the box with Jones and Butler, they seem to be a little faster than any other team in the league.—Columbus Journal.

The Wheeling Intelligencer is responsible for the rumor that President Power is negotiating for a few changes in the Inter-State league circuit, which involve the transferring of the Mansfield and Youngstown clubs to Grand Rapids and Louisville. It would be an awful jump from Louisville to New Castle, and there is not much chance for there being any truth in the report.—Columbus Dispatch.

The team work of the Toledo shows the good effect of the coaching of an experienced captain. Jack Glasscock has gone to Sioux City, where Buck Ebricht was released to make room for him. Jack will undoubtedly turn out a winner. He always has.—Columbus Journal.

The team that beats those Stogie Makers will win the pennant—or come mighty near it.—Port Wayne Journal.

They say that that Wheeling crowd is a "bad lot" on kicking. The two games played here, however, have been models of deportment. They are aggressive and fighters; a ball team that isn't not much of a club, anyhow.—Port Wayne Journal.

Stogies are cheap to-day. The bottom has fallen out of the market. The slump came unexpectedly, and will, it is feared, cause a panic. The quotations, up to a few days ago, were decidedly bullish, but recent events have upset things in Stogietown, and the "shorts" have got the whole market on the run. It is feared the old brokerage house of Lytle & Company will be unable to stem the tide, and will go down, dragging with it the good town of Wheeling. Late reports last night had it that the firm was "all in." Two more gray hairs have shown themselves on the cranium of the head of the institution. There are just two more left to turn to the color of snow. The market opened at 3:30 dull and quiet. The reports from Chicago that cumberbers were selling rapidly at a good price seemed to stir the pit up, and the fun began. When the smoke cleared away it was discovered that the stogie market had the "socks knocked out of it." One-leaf cigars could be bought at any old price. On top of this came the report that the "stogie-makers" were on a strike, but couldn't strike Harper's "shots." It is indeed appalling the drop the three-for-fives have taken. It is feared they cannot be revived.—Port Wayne Journal.

MARTIN'S FERRY NEWS.

The Daily Chronicle of Wheeling's Progressive Neighbor.

Council met last night in called session with eight members present. The chief reason for the calling of this meeting was to take some action upon the paving brick question, which has agitated the members since a recent test of the bricks was made, when the fact was discovered that they were not in accordance with the quality that had been purchased and that they would not stand the same test that the samples were subject to. A motion was made and prevailed that the city clerk notify the Mack Brick Company that their brick which have already been distributed upon the streets preparatory to paving, have been rejected and that there will be a meeting of council Saturday evening. The only other matter of importance was the recommendation of weighmasters and city engineers by Mayor Goodhue, which were as follows: First ward scales, J. O. Perry, weighmaster; Second ward, David Gosney; Third ward, William C. Slaney; Fourth ward, George Helling; Fifth ward, William Coates. The recommendation of Gosney, Slaney and Coates was rejected, while the others were confirmed. Abram Lash was recommended as city engineer, but no action was taken.

The census enumerators have about completed their work and there are many predictions as to the growth of the town's population since the taking of the last census. Some are inclined to think that the report of the enumerators will reach 10,000, while more conservative ones place the limit at 9,000, or a little more. The town has certainly added greatly to its population in the past ten years, but whether or not it is increased as greatly as suspected is a question the enumerators only can answer when their reports are made. In 1890 the population was given at 8,025, and an addition of 2,000 in ten years' time is something out of the ordinary considering the fact that four years of very hard times were experienced, when many people removed to other places. To counteract this, however, many new families have moved in, attracted here by the numerous positions offered in the rolling mills, new factories established, and the work-shops, all of which are giving very steady employment, and it may be that the ten thousand mark will be reached.

Mrs. Charles Fritz, who was taken to the North Wheeling hospital the first of the week, to undergo an operation for tumor, died at that place yesterday about noon. The remains were removed to the family residence in the Standard addition, from where the funeral will probably take place Friday, but definite arrangements for which have not yet been completed.

Since the opening of Sixth street council has never taken any steps to put the street in a condition fit to be traveled. The only thing needed to make it fit for travel is the sewerage of the street, which crosses it near the south end, and two men under the direction of the street commissioner, could do what work is required in a day's time.
